Hot DRESSES

Gone are the days of claiming you have nothing to wear. Spice up your wardrobe with One Dress A Day, an e-commerce site that releases a new style 365 days a year. Designed by Bruno Schiavi, the man behind the Kardashian Kollection, the options incorporate various trends to appeal to any fashionista's eye. The limited-edition collection is available for only one week on the site, so what you see is what you get. Barcodes are included for easy purchase. From

Hot TREAT

When models and celebs including Ciara, Coco Rocha, Nina Agdal and Katrina Bowden hit the Bebe campaign launch party decked out in their fancy frocks and actually stop to eat dessert, you know those sweets have to be utterly irresistible! The band of beauties snacked on the new crisped-rice squares from Treat House, a gourmet upgrade of the classic bake-sale dessert, now made in creative flavors like M&M's, Bubble Gum and Cookies & Cream. Plus, for every marshmallow treat purchased, 10 cents is donated to the Food Bank for New York City, a hunger-relief organization working to end food poverty. Now, isn't that sweet? Starting at $2.25, treathouse.com.

Hot RESTAURANT

Mark Salling celebrated his recent birthday in Vegas by feasting his way into a food coma! The Glee star dined at chef Akira Back's Kumi Japanese Restaurant + Bar, which features a menu of Japanese cuisine with a Korean twist. And, because no party is complete without a toast, the bar serves up signature cocktails, including the Kumi Bomb and Kanpai Cooler. Cheers! kumilasvegas.com

The proceeds go to Lipstick Angels, a nonprofit group that helps transform the healing process of hospitalized women through professional makeup services. The auction goes live on Sept. 16, and Mena Suvari and Amanda Seyfried are also in on the autograph/auction action — so get them before they're going, going, gone! ubid.com/lipstickangels
